

COURSE TITLE:

ENVIRONMENTAL SOCIOLOGY

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The academic subject analyses the connection between nature and society. It examines the changes in environment paradigm., providing a comprehensive historical analysis of the relation of environment and society, focusing on relations of environment attitudes and behaviour.. Major processes: urbanisation, human ecology, Himalaya-challenge, environment-generated migration, ecological interests and their enforcement. Political ecology, the history of green parties and movements. A transdisciplinary examination of environment.

TEACHER:

Éva Izsák

associate professor